

North Carolina Early Intervention-Early Childhood Library

North Carolina's Early Intervention-Early Childhood Library houses a large collection of print and video materials that focus on young children with special needs and those who are typically developing, their families, and recommended practices for serving them. There is also a special collection of children's books! These materials are available for loan to parents and professionals in North Carolina.

The North Carolina Early Intervention-Early Childhood Library also houses the Partnerships for Inclusion collection of library materials that focus on quality childcare and the promotion of inclusive opportunities for young children with special needs.

Check-out is easy! Search the library on the Web, make your selections and the items will be mailed to you. You may also visit the library in person, select the items you would like to borrow and take them with you.
